

MADIKWE GAME RESERVE

Four hours northwest of Pretoria / Johannesburg, sandwiched between the Dwarsberg Mountains and the Kalahari Desert, lies the Madikwe Game Reserve – 76 500 hectares of rolling grassland, dotted with rocky hills that slope down to the Marico River. One of the largest game reserves in South Africa, Madikwe has a broad mix of habitats that support an enormous range of wildlife, from the prized Big Five to cheetah, zebra and endangered wild dog. A special feature of this reserve lies in its unique location, a transition zone on the edges of the Kalahari, where a number of rare species occur naturally. Open only to guests of the handful of safari lodges within its boundaries, Madikwe is remote, wild and beautiful – the Africa of legend still alive today. Over 350 bird species have been recorded at Madikwe.
